RELAXATION SKILLS

Skill Sheet for Educators

Stress and anxiety are connected to physical sensations in our bodies. The relaxation skill of paced belly breathing helps us turn down these unpleasant physical sensations, which helps us to feel calm and in control.

In the video, the hedgehog friend was feeling nervous during her dance competition. She felt many unpleasant physical sensations in her body. Thanks to her friend the turtle, she used paced belly breathing to calm her body and turn down her nervousness so she could complete the competition.

Summary of the KEY SKILLS from the video.

- Belly breathing is breathing slowly and deeply at a steady pace. By slowing their inhaleds and extending their exhaleds, your students can use their breath to harness control of their emotions.
- Belly breathing balances out the carbon dioxide and oxygen in students' bodies, cutting off their fight, flight, or freeze response. It returns their mind and body to a calmer state.

Practice skills

- Post visual reminders of the paced belly breathing skill around your classroom for your students to reference.
- Model and practice relaxation strategies with your students proactively. For example:

“I sometimes get nervous before tests, so I am going to take five belly breaths to calm down. Take five belly breaths with me.”

- Use specific positive feedback frequently, immediately, and consistently when your students utilize paced belly breathing. For example:

“Nice job taking belly breaths before reading in front of the class!”

“_____, I noticed you used paced belly breathing when you were starting to feel angry. Great choice!”

- Use paced belly breathing to help ground yourself and your students after exciting activities, like recess or a class transition.
- You can also practice and model this skill as a way to help navigate challenging emotions like feeling scared or angry.

On the next page there is an activity that you can share with your students or post in your classroom to reinforce and practice paced belly breathing.

Activity

Practicing these skills helps you to increase awareness of thoughts, feelings, and behaviors to improve your mental health and wellness.

Paced Belly Breathing

Breathing deeply into your belly helps to tell your body that you are safe and calm. Follow the instructions below and practice paced belly breathing when you are feeling calm and when you are feeling stressed or anxious.

1

Sit comfortably in your chair or on the floor either cross-legged or on your shins.

2

Place one hand on your belly and one hand on your chest.

3

Breathe in slowly through your nose for 4 seconds and feel your belly expand.

4

Slowly breathe out for 5 seconds through your mouth, letting the air gently leave your body.

5

Repeat 3-5 times, or for as long as you want.
